In Visible Movement Urayoan Noel, 2014-06-01 Since the 1960s Nuyorican poets have explored and performed Puerto Rican identity both on and off the page Emerging within and alongside the civil rights movements of the 1960s the foundational Nuyorican writers sought to counter the ethnic racial and institutional invisibility of New York City Puerto Ricans by documenting the reality of their communities in innovative and sometimes challenging ways Since then Nuyorican poetry has entered the U S Latino literary canon and has gained prominence in light of the spoken word revival of the past two decades a movement spearheaded by the Nuyorican Poetry Slams of the 1990s Today Nuyorican poetry engages with contemporary social issues such as the commodification of the body the institutionalization of poetry the gentrification of the barrio and the national and global marketing of identity What has not changed is a continued shared investment in a poetics that links the written word and the performing body The first book length study specifically devoted to Nuyorican poetry In Visible Movement is unique in its historical and formal breadth ranging from the foundational poets of the 1960s and 1970s to a variety of contemporary poets emerging in and around the Nuyorican Poets Cafe slam scene of the 1990s and early 2000s It also unearths a largely unknown corpus of poetry performances reading over forty years of Nuyorican poetry at the intersection of the printed and performed word underscoring the poetry s links to vernacular and Afro Puerto Rican performance cultures from the island's oral poets to the New York sounds and rhythms of Latin boogaloo salsa and hip hop. With depth and insight Urayo n Noel analyzes various canonical Nuyorican poems by poets such as Pedro Pietri Victor Hernandez Cruz Miguel Algar n Miguel Pi ero Sandra Mar a Esteves and Tato Laviera. He discusses historically overlooked poets such as Lorraine Sutton innovative poets typically read outside the Nuyorican tradition such as Frank Lima and Edwin Torres and a younger generation of Nuyorican identified poets including Willie Perdomo Mar a Teresa Mariposa Fern ndez and Emanuel Xavier whose work has received only limited critical consideration. The result is a stunning reflection of how New York Puerto Rican poets have addressed the complexity of identity amid diaspora for over forty years.

Performative Body Spaces ,2015-06-29 The human body as cultural object always has and is a performing subject which binds the political with the theatrical shows the construction of ethnicity and technology unveils private and public spaces transgresses race and gender and finally becomes a medium that overcomes the borders of art and life. Since there cannot be a universal definition of the human body due to its culturally performative role as a producer of interactive social spaces this volume discusses body images from diverse cultural historical and disciplinary perspectives such as art history human kinetics and performance studies. The fourteen case studies reach from Asian to European studies from 19th century French culture to 20th century German literature from Polish Holocaust memoirs to contemporary dance performances from Japanese avant garde theatre to Makeover Reality TV shows. This volume is of interest for performance studies artists as well. By focusing on the intersection of body and space all contributions aim to bridge the gap between art practices and theories of performativity. The innovative impulse of this approach lies in the belief that there is no distinction between performing discussing and theorizing the human body and thus fosters a unique transdisciplinary and international collaboration around the theme performative body spaces. I Biopolitical Choreographies II Transcultural Topographies III Corporal Mediations IV Controlled Interfaces U.S. Latina Theater Maria Yolanda Godsey,2016 Since the 1980s U S Latina Theater has focused on presenting realistic portrayals of the feminine subject on stage. Such an undertaking by Latina playwrights has been to challenge to the representations of women in traditional male centered and male created theater. This dissertation studies the strategies and sites that playwrights Cherr e Moraga in The Hungry Woman A Mexican Medea and Shadow of a Man Odalys Nan n in The Nun and the Countess Carmen Rivera in La Gringa and Dolores Prida in Coser y Cantar employ to stage authentic feminine subjects The plays are analyzed through the lens of three locales customarily imagined and structured by patriarchy mythmaking the traditional Chicano family hierarchy and the subject s quest to identity formation By taking control of the pen these Latinas displace the traditional organization and invert the power structure of said sites In mythmaking patriarchy has customarily punished the rebellious woman by depicting her as monstrous This study takes the position that by reinventing myths Latina playwrights expose the frailty of male created myths that would vilify women and in turn have gained the authority of authorship to the benefit of mythical feminine icons Within the space of the plays women freely explore themes that tradition expects them to accept without interrogation Analysis of said themes employs the deconstruction of patriarchal institutions such as familial and Church hierarchies The female protagonists make a quest to subjectivity construction a luxury usually reserved for male protagonists This dissertation suggests that a theory specific to female fiction is essential in reading the feminine journey to subjectivity Consequently the writings of Dana A Heller have been adopted in the analysis of quest subjectivity construction Shattering the Myth Etc,1992 A collection of plays by Hispanic women explores their bicultural heritage articulating what it means to be Latina and shattering the myths that have been associated with that heritage
