Managing Multiculturalism Jean E. Jackson, 2019-02-12 Indigenous people in Colombia constitute a mere three percent of the national population Colombian indigenous communities success in gaining collective control of almost thirty percent of the national territory is nothing short of extraordinary In Managing Multiculturalism Jean E Jackson examines the evolution of the Colombian indigenous movement over the course of her forty plus years of research and fieldwork offering unusually developed and nuanced insight into how indigenous communities and activists changed over time as well as how she the ethnographer and scholar evolved in turn The story of how indigenous organizing began found its voice established alliances and won battles against the government and the Catholic Church has important implications for the indigenous cause internationally and for understanding all manner of rights organizing Integrating case studies with commentaries on the movement's development Jackson explores the politicization and deployment of multiculturalism indigenous identity and neoliberalism as well as changing conceptions of cultural value and authenticity including issues such as patrimony heritage and ethnic tourism Both ethnography and recent history of the Latin American indigenous movement this work traces the ideas motivating indigenous movements in regional and global relief and with unprecedented breadth and depth

Between the Forest and the Road Andrea Bravo Díaz, 2023-09-15 During the past two decades Ecuadorians have engaged in a national debate around Buen Vivir living well This ethnography discusses one of the ways in which people experience well being or aspire to live well in Ecuadorian Amazonia Waponi Kewemonipa living well is a Waorani notion that embraces ideas of good conviviality health and certain ecological relations For the Waorani living along the oil roads living well has taken many pathways Notably they have developed new spatial organizations as they move between several houses and navigate between the economy of the market and the economy of the forest

Animism in Southeast Asia Kaj Århem, Guido Sprenger, 2015-11-19 Animism refers to ontologies or worldviews which assign agency and personhood to human and non human beings alike Recent years have seen a revival of this concept in anthropology where it is now discussed as an alternative to modern Western naturalistic notions of human environment relations Based on original fieldwork this book presents a number of case studies of animism from insular and peninsular Southeast Asia and offers a comprehensive overview of the phenomenon its diversity and underlying commonalities and its resilience in the face of powerful forces of change Critically engaging with the current standard notion of animism based on hunter gatherer and horticulturalist societies in other regions it examines the roles of life forces souls and spirits in local cosmologies and indigenous religion It proposes an expansion of the concept to societies featuring mixed farming sacrifice and hierarchy and explores the question of how non human agents are created through acts of attention and communication touching upon the relationship between animist ontologies world religion and the state Shedding new light on Southeast Asian religious ethnographic research the book is a significant contribution to anthropological theory and the revitalization of the concept of animism in the humanities and social sciences Houses

Transformed Jonathan Alderman, Rosalie Stolz, 2024-01-05 Over the decades there has been a world wide transformation of so called vernacular houses Based on ethnographic accounts from different regions Houses Transformed investigates the changing practices of building houses in a transnational context It explores the intersection of house biographies and social change the politics of housing design the social fabrication of aspirational houses the domestication of concrete and the intersection of materiality and ontology as well as the rhetoric of the vernacular The volume provides new anthropological pathways to understand the dynamics of dwelling in the 21st century The Journal of the Royal Anthropological
