Foreign Direct Investment Theory Evidence And Practice:

Foreign Direct Investment I. Moosa, 2002-01-29 Foreign direct investment is an important issue that has attracted the attention of academic and professional economists as well as politicians and policy makers In Foreign Direct Investment Imad A Moosa presents a survey of the vast body of literature and ideas relating to foreign direct investment that will be invaluable as a reference work for all these groups He provides concise definition and analysis of the theories behind foreign direct investment and considers factors affecting its implementation The impact of foreign direct investment on economic development host countries and the growth of multinationals together with methods for evaluating foreign direct investment projects are discussed The book is based on the experiences of and the empirical evidence pertaining to foreign direct investment in a large number of countries and includes case studies on specific projects Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) in India & its Impact on Industrial Development Dr.Shuchi, FDI in India has a significant role in development of India FDI in India to various sectors can attain sustained economic growth and development through creation of jobs expansion of existing manufacturing industries The inflow of FDI in service sectors and construction and development sector attained substantial sustained economic growth and development through creation of jobs in India Foreign Direct Investments (FDIs) and Opportunities for Developing Economies in the World Market Malepati, Venkataramanaiah, Gowri, C. Mangala, 2017-12-30 The role of foreign direct investment initiatives is pivotal to effective enterprise development This is particularly vital to emerging economies that are building their presence in international business markets Foreign Direct Investments FDIs and Opportunities for Developing Economies in the World Market is a critical scholarly publication that explores the importance of global stocks to new economic structures and explores the effects that these holdings have on the financial status of growing nations Featuring a broad range of topics such as economic transformation investment in production facilities and foreign direct investors this publication is geared towards academicians practitioners and researchers seeking current and relevant research on the importance of global investment in new and growing financial municipalities Legal Protection of Foreign Direct Investment. A Critical Assessment with Focus on South Africa and Zimbabwe Talkmore Chidede, 2016-09 This study undertakes a critical assessment of the legal protection of foreign direct investments FDI in South Africa and Zimbabwe by determining their compliance with the international minimum standards norms and or best practices on the legal protection of FDI by host states Firstly the study argues that foreign investment is much needed in South Africa and Zimbabwe to improve economic growth and development to create jobs and to increase their competitiveness However these benefits are not accrued automatically but rather host states need to create an enabling environment to receive such benefits Thus host states need to put an investment scheme into operation to guarantee the legal protection of foreign investments South Africa and Zimbabwe have at large crafted and implemented investment laws and related policies which tend to be hostile towards foreign investments Therefore similar investment laws and related policies in both jurisdictions are analysed This study will also offer recommendations for a legal investment which is not only flexible friendly and favourable to foreign investment in South Africa and Zimbabwe but also advances their local economic policies

Determinants of Foreign Direct Investment in Emerging Markets Torsten Wezel,2005 Emerging markets frequently feature strong economic growth but also unique risks political instability legal uncertainty and corruption which constitute barriers to foreign direct investment FDI This study analyzes empirically whether superior investment profiles of recipient countries matter for German FDI in addition to typical determinants such as labor costs level of income and market openness The specifics of banking FDI are also examined notably the impact of incipient banking crises abroad and the risk mitigating property of multilateral development banks acting as stakeholders in individual FDI projects The concluding part highlights recent initiatives of international organizations to lower investment barriers fight corruption and strengthen financial system stability

The Effect of Capital Controls on Foreign Direct Investment Decisions Under Country Risk with

Intangible Assets Kinga Z. Elo, 2007-04 This paper examines how capital controls affect FDI decisions and how the impact of these restrictive measures varies with different levels of country risk We construct a model of firms FDI decisions broadly in Dunning's eclectic theory framework using real options to emphasize economic uncertainty and country risk Numerical results of the model take the form of quality statistics that uncover the underlying dynamics hidden in the aggregate data that is responsible for the low performance of recent empirical studies We find that increasing levels of capital controls reduce the life span of FDI investments at each level of country risk and foreign investors willingness towards risk sharing increases We reveal a significant interaction between capital control and country risk resulting in a nonlinear relationship between these and the volatility and volume statistics We estimate a standard cross sectional model that provides strong support for our theoretical findings Foreign Direct Investment and Growth in East Asia Busakorn Chantasasawat, 2004

Land Grabbing and Home Country Development Ariane Goetz, 2019 Since 2008 foreign land acquisitions have attracted international attention under the term land grabbing Illustrated by rich and nuanced empirical accounts of forty Chinese and British investment projects in Sub Saharan Africa Ariane Goetz explains the phenomenon of land grabbing from the perspective of two investor countries She reflects on Chinese and British public policy state society relations national developmental contexts ideologies and international relations and thereby gives insights into the political economies that enable these investments as well as the development ambitions and institutionalized paradigms of which they form a part

Transnational Corporations and the Internationalization of R&D United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, 2005 This annual report examines changing trends in foreign direct investment FDI flows worldwide at the regional and country levels and emerging measures to improve its contribution to development The 2005 edition focuses on the internationalisation of research and development by transnational corporations and its policy implications for innovation economic growth and development Findings for the year 2004 show that after three years of decline in global investment flows there was a rise of two per cent overall compared to the previous year This growth was led by the increase in FDI flows to developing countries of 40 per cent whilst developed countries experienced a 14 per cent drop in their inward FDI As a result the share of developing countries in world FDI inflows reached 36 per cent the highest level since 1997
