

The background of the cover is a painting. It depicts a person's arm and hand reaching out from a body of green, textured water. The arm is pale and appears to be struggling or reaching for help. The water is a mottled green color with visible brushstrokes, giving it a painterly, somewhat somber feel. The overall composition is centered around the title text.

Drowner Robert Drewe:

The Drowner Robert Drewe, 2001-09-03 In the warm alkaline waters of the public bath a headstrong young engineer accidentally collides with a beautiful actress From this innocent collision of flesh begins a passion that takes them from the Wiltshire Downs to the most elemental choices of life and death in the Australian desert Their intense romance is but part of the daring story that unfolds Mingling history myth and technology with a modern cinematic and poetic imagination Robert Drewe presents a fable of European ambitions in an alien landscape and a magnificently sustained metaphor of water as the life and death force The Drowner by Robert Drewe Laurie Clancy, 1997 Seeking the Centre Roslynn D.

Haynes, 1998 The desert has a hypnotic presence in Australian culture simultaneously alluring and repellent The Centre is distant and unknown to most Australians yet has become a symbol of the country This exciting book highly illustrated in full colour reveals the singular impact that the desert both geographical and metaphorical has had on Australian culture At the heart of the book is the profound relationship that Aboriginal Australians have with the desert and the complex ways in which they have been seen by white people in this context Premodern Ecologies in the Modern Literary Imagination Vin Nardizzi, Tiffany Jo Werth, 2019-04-18 Premodern Ecologies in the Modern Literary Imagination explores how the cognitive and physical landscapes in which scholars conduct research write and teach have shaped their understandings of medieval and Renaissance English literary ecologies The collection strives to practice what Ursula K Heise calls eco cosmopolitanism a method that imagines forms of local environmentalism as a defense against the interventions of open market global networks It also expands the idea s possibilities and identifies its limitations through critical studies of premodern texts artefacts and environmental history The essays connect real environments and their imaginative re creations and affirm the urgency of reorienting humanity s responsiveness to and responsibility for the historical links between human and non human existence The discussion of ways in which meditation on scholarly place and time can deepen ecocritical work offers an innovative and engaging approach that will appeal to both ecocritics generally and to medieval and early modern scholars
